

ALL FOR SILVER.

There has not been such a political revolution in Nevada since it was organized as a Territory as at the present time. Every newspaper in the State, with the exception of the Virginia Enterprise, Reno Gazette and one or two at Carson, is outspoken, for free coinage, and determined to support no man for President or any other office who is not an advocate of remonetization.

The times are auspicious for an awakening on the silver question. Miners are closing down in all parts of the State and hundreds of men are compelled to seek elsewhere for employment. Farmers who supplied the miners with vegetables, butter, eggs, milk, etc. are deprived of a home market and suffer almost equally with the miner because of the general depression. The closing down of the mines as in Canada, Cortez, Tuscarora and hundreds of other places, throws the blacksmith, carpenter, tailor and shoemaker out of work as well as the miner, and closes the store of the merchant. Villages are deserted, school houses closed, and the burden of taxation increased, because of the depreciation in the value of property, and the population of the State decreased.

This is all the result of unfriendly legislation and unjust discrimination against the principal product of the State. The price of silver has dropped from $1.29 to 86 cents per ounce, and the bowl goes up from the gold men and their organs that the silver dollar is worth only 70 cents, when it is well known that if the mine were open to silver as they are to gold, as the founders of the Government intended they should be, the silver dollar would have a fixed value, not of 70 cents, as the gold men and their organs charge, but of 100 cents.

Fortunately the people are educated on the silver question throughout the West and the South, and seem determined not to be the dupes of selfish and designing men any longer. Every where in the silver producing States Republicans and Democrats are making common cause for free coinage. They see it concerns the West more than any other question now before the public and they have decided, so far as they are concerned, to make it the issue of the campaign, and will not be swayed from the course they have marked out by place-hunting politicians or subsidized newspapers.

THE PRESIDENT TAKES SIDES.

The ranchers and small cattle owners, generally called rustlers, and the extensive stock owners, known as beef barons, have been engaged in a war of extermination in Wyoming. Each faction alleged that it was right and the other wrong, in fact the rustlers were denounced as thieves by the big ranchmen, who accused them of making raids on their ranges and stealing stock. The feeling between the two factions became so intense that they actually declared war against each other and gave no quarter. The Governor under pretense that the State authorities were unable to maintain order, applied to the United States authorities for assistance, and two or three companies of United States troops were sent to the scene of the disturbance. Several lives had been lost meantime, and when the troops arrived they found that the rustlers had captured the ammunition of the beef barons and were preparing to attack them in a corral where they had taken refuge. The troops discovered that the civil officers were with the rustlers and that many of the latter were sworn in as Deputy Sheriffs to assist in restoring order. On the other hand a large number of the beef barons proved to be United States Deputy Marshals, who left Texas two weeks ago rather mysteriously giving out that they were going west to engage in the cattle business. These worthies were rounded up by the troops, who refused to surrender them to the civil authorities, who wanted them to answer to the crime of murder, they having, it is alleged, shot and killed peaceable settlers at their homes.

A dispatch from Paris, Texas, says it turns out that those Deputy Marshals, who are desperadoes of the worst character, were sent to Wyoming by special request of President Harrison. The party comprised forty-three persons, who took the oath as Pinkerton detectives. They were at last accounts in charge of the military, the officers refusing to deliver them to the civil authorities, and the Governor declining to interfere and bring the marauders and murderers to justice.

IS THIS TRUE?

The Carson Tribune publishes the following as its leading article, and strange to say, the Reno Goldbug does not attempt to refute it:

"The Tribune is credibly informed that nearly every dollar which Mr. F. G. Newlands contributed to the Silver Committee at Washington was used to advance his own interests by sending his writings and utterances to the Pacific Coast.

"He paid about $60 for 5,000 copies of Hon. H. F. Bartine's first speech, but they were sent mostly into Pennsylvania, where they were sure to do Mr. Bartine no good. "Mr. Newland's big speech" before the Coinage Committee was made two weeks after the matter to which it was addressed—namely, an International Conference—had been settled, upon Mr. Bartine's motion."

Hon. W. H. Claggett, who contested the seat of Fred Dubois for United States Senator from Idaho, is now in Boise City. In a speech Saturday evening he declared that the protective principle was being carried too far in the interest of monopolies and opposed to the interests of the people. He denounced the action of both political parties on the silver question, and reserved for himself the right to champion the cause of the people.

The "Rustler" Trouble Discussed at the Cabinet Meeting.

The "Rustler" Trouble the Subject of Discussion at the Cabinet Meeting.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The "Rustlers" trouble in Wyoming was the principal topic of discussion at the meeting of the Cabinet to-day. The situation is regarded as serious, in view of the fact that the feeling against the prisoners in charge of the military is very bitter, and also because of the freely expressed threats of desperate men. They mean to avenge the killing of Champion and Ray at the first opportunity. No word has been received from Col. Van Horn and the captives at Fort McKinney since Saturday, when he telegraphed General Brooke at Omaha that he would start that day for Douglas to turn the prisoners over to the civil authorities. Efforts to communicate with Fort McKinney and vicinity since have failed, and this led to the belief that the rustlers have destroyed telegraphic communication in order to prevent the authorities from learning the true situation until after they have accomplished their purpose. General Brooke telegraphed to-day that he did not anticipate any trouble en route. General Schofield said he felt no uneasiness, as there is no reason why the soldiers should be attacked and he was confident of their ability to protect themselves and the prisoners. It is understood orders have been given to reestablish telegraphic communication with the scene of trouble as soon as possible.

The Modus Vivendi.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations this afternoon reported favorably the modus vivendi convention with Great Britain. The treaty was discussed less than two hours and was ratified with substantial unanimity. Briefly stated, the articles prohibit Great Britain and the United States from seal killing in Behring Sea and on Seal Islands save seventy-five hundred seals to be taken on the Islands by the United States for the subsistence of the natives during arbitration. It provides for the seizure of offending vessels and permits the residence of British agents on the islands during the sealing season. Damages will be paid to the Government in whose favor the arbitrators decide. The convention can be ended by either Government after October 31st, 1893, or by giving to the other party two months' notice of its termination. The treaty was signed by Secretary Blaine and Sir Julian Pauncefote, and was dated yesterday.

Damage Done by the Earthquake.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—Dispatches to the Associated Press from upward of thirty-five towns show that the earthquake this morning was quite generally felt in the northern part of the State and in Sacramento Valley. Considerable damage was done to property and a number of people injured, one or two being seriously hurt. The towns of Vacaville, Dixon and Winters, apparently, sustained the most damage. At some points only one shock was felt, while at others two or even more were felt, but where they exceeded two in number the shocks became confused. The vibrations of the shocks were from north to south and from east to west, and they were accompanied at some points by a rumbling sound.

Senate Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—There was an indirect test of the strength of the silver men to-day, when the question came up on Kyle's motion to strike out of the Arizona Funding bill the clause requiring the payment of interest in gold and inserting the words "in lawful money of the United States." The motion prevailed by a vote of 23 to 24. After some debate the bill passed.

A conference was asked and Platt, Jones of Arkansas and Faulkner were appointed as conferees on the part of the Senate. After an executive session the Senate adjourned.

Annual Report of the C. & C. R. R.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—The annual report of the Carson & Colorado Railroad (Third Division) was filed with the Railroad Commissioners to-day. The property of this company is in Nevada and California and is about to be transferred to the Carson & Colorado Railway Company, incorporated recently under the laws of this State. The officers of the Third Division are as follows:

President, H. M. Yerington; Vice President, W. S. Wood; Treasurer, S. P. Smith; Secretary, D. A. Bender. These, together with D. L. Bliss, M. B. Langhorne, and J. H. Robinson, constitute the Board of Directors. The cost of construction up to date, has been $3,240,000. The capital stock is $1,020,000; the bonded debt $1,620,000 and the floating debt $130,000.

Democrats in Convention.

PORTLAND, Or., April 19.—The State Democratic Convention convened here to-day. A permanent organization was effected.

Delegates and alternates to the National Convention were chosen. The delegates will go uninstrued but all have declared openly in favor of Cleveland.

At the evening session George E. Chamberlain was nominated Attorney General. The platform adopted reaffirms the Democratic platform of 1884 and 1888 and points with pride to Cleveland's Administration and condemns the Billion Dollar Congress; condemns the McKinley bill as the blighting iniquity of the age; advocates tariff for revenue only; gold and silver coinage of equal value; greater care in the pension laws; election of Senators by direct vote; advancement of the common school system; adoption of laws for the purity of the ballot; regulation of railroads to eight hours a day; adjustment of land laws; forfeiture of railroad grants; improvement of the Columbia river; points with pride to the Democratic Chinese exclusion record; advocates Geary's bill and denounces Senator Dolph for opposing it.

Claim Filers at War.

GUTHRIE, O. T., April 19.—It is reported from Oklahoma City that a riot took place among claim filers at the land office to-day and that several people were injured.

HOOVER, Tex., April 19.—One thousand boomers made a race into the Cheyenne and Arapahoe Reservations from the border opposite this place. From the northern and western borders fully four times that number entered the lands. Only claims were taken up near the borders.

Four Murderers Lynched.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 19.—Four negroes were hanged at Inverness last night for the murder of Stephenson and Payne. A mob surrounded the jail and overpowered the Sheriff and hanged the men to trees near by. They confessed and implicated two others, who will, no doubt, soon be captured. The same fate awaits them.

Something.

A something hovers in the air,
And peeps over the linked tree,
And rits about the winged clouds,
Yet hath no form the eye can see;
But to the deeper, inward sight,
It is a presence sweet and true,
That fills the universe with joy,
And wakes the earth with impulse new!

A something in the forest word,
It scarcely may be named a voice,
Yet fettered captives hear its call,
And in their longing heart rejoice—
A subtle whisper in the breeze,
A soft, it seems a spirit's breath,
Yet leafless boughs grow tremulous
With ecstasy at what it saith!

A something rises with the morn,
And lingers with the sun's last ray,
Brings rapture to the silent night,
And hushes to the slumbering day;
With yearning, half of bliss and pain,
It swells my heart, and wonderings
I ask, What can it be? A bird
Sings at my window, "It is spring!"

The Way Real Estate Goes Up in Creede.
The other day a Denver man stepped from the train, saw a lot he thought he would like, and asked the owner, who of course just "happened" to be standing near, what he would take for it.
"One thousand dollars," was the reply.

"Well, I'll see you again shortly. I want to look about and get my bearings."

After inquiring the prices of various other lots he concluded to take the first one. He had been gone but an hour, and felt a satisfaction at being able to do a little business so soon after his arrival, and remarked to a companion: "This is a hummer and no mistake." To the owner he said: "I've concluded to take your lot. Have the papers made out and we'll go up to the bank and get the money."

"The price has gone up since you were here. It is now $1,300," quietly remarked the owner.

"Three hundred dollars an hour!" he gasped, and was carried to the train. The pace was too killing. Such activity in realty and building has rarely been seen, even in Colorado. The buildings in Jintown have arisen like mushrooms over night. An absence of a couple of days, and one would rub his eyes to be sure he was awake, so great is the change.—Cor. Denver Sun.

BORN.

SEATON—In Reno, Nev., April 19, 1892, to the wife of Elmer Seaton, a ten-pound son.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. Distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, faint, "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels, are some of the more common symptoms. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful, persistent treatment, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet surely and efficiently, restores the stomach and other organs, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, and by thus overcoming the local symptoms removes the cause of the disease, banishes the effects of the disease, banishes the headache, and refreshes the tired mind.

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat, I did not digest, and I did not feel good. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness, or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble, I think, was aggravated by my business, which is that of a painter, and from being more or less shut up in a room with fresh paint. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla—took three bottles. It did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced." "German Syrup"

The majority of well-read physicians now believe that Consumption is a germ disease. In other words, instead of being in the constitution itself it is caused by innumerable small creatures living in the lungs having no business there and eating them away as caterpillars do the leaves of trees.

The phlegm that is coughed up is those parts of the lungs which have been gnawed off and destroyed. These little bacilli, as the germs are called, are too small to be seen with the naked eye, but they are very much alive just the same, and enter the body in our food, in the air we breathe, and through the pores of the skin. Thence they get into the blood and finally arrive at the lungs where they fasten and increase with frightful rapidity. Then German Syrup comes in, loosens them, kills them, expels them, heals the places they leave, and so nourish and soothe that, in a short time consumptives become germ-proof and well.

ANTHROPOLOGY.

She sits in dreary silence while she waits. A silence hushed and sacred and serene. Waiting the opening of the mystic gates of life into a soul, from realms unseen. She sits in silence, from realms unseen. Summon a soul to lofty lot, or mean. To share perfume in earth's dread, love and hate.

She sits in silence of the future's fate or bliss. She dreams of baby hands, and lips and eyes. Of dimpled feet, all of herself a part. Of the deep rapture of the first faint kiss. Of hushing on her breast the waiting crescent. Of pressing it forever to her heart.

—Hattie T. Griswold in HomeMaker.

An Example That Should Be Followed.

Recently a few ladies of a prosperous Long Island village organized a society to encourage the young people of the village to study American trees, plants and flowers, and to assist in the preservation of native plants in the neighborhood.

The ladies found that a great deal of interest was taken in the work of the society, and by means of it a desire was aroused in the village to cultivate wild flowers and native plants.

This desire suggested the advantage of possessing a plot of ground of sufficient area, where American trees and plants could be established and protected, and where not only could the members of the society find illustrated the trees and plants which they were engaged in studying, but which would serve as a kind of public playground.

The laws of New York permit associations of private persons to secure lands for parks and public playgrounds, independent of municipal authority, and to employ officers who shall have power to protect such grounds.

Under this law, and by the aid of private subscriptions raised in the town, a little park of six acres, on the shore of a pond which is centrally located, was purchased and forever set apart as a planting ground for native flowers and trees.

The example of the ladies who formed the society which organized and carried out this movement is worthy of imitation everywhere. Patriotism is stimulated by arousing and cultivating the love for American trees, plants, birds and natural objects, through a plot of ground provided for such a purpose.

Furthermore, such parks and each societies help to attach the people to their native place and lessen in them the desire to wander away to the cities.—Youth's Companion.

Proprietries of Amateur Singing.

A woman should choose her songs as she chooses her bonnets and gowns, with reference to what is becoming. This involves not only her style and appearance, but her temperamental hair and complexion. When one hears in a drawing room a woman who weighs nearly 200 pounds singing "I Would Be a Birdling," and a young rosy cheeked girl bewailing the ashes of a dead and gone passion, the sense of incongruity is apt to overbalance the value of the song. The gray haired woman who wants to be a gypsy maid and trip to the light guitar, and the dimpled girl asking in musical phrases to be buried amid nature's beauties are anomalies of which the eye and ear take note.

The decline of drawing room music has hastened almost in the measure that interest in music has increased. Paradoxical as it may seem, interest in music has helped to destroy love of music. It is not the song, but the way it is sung that claims attention. The musical amateur challenges comparison and criticism by singing the music after the manner of the concert stage. Neither the manner nor the methods of the concert hall belong to the drawing room. The difference in focus is every difference.—New York Evening Sun.

Drill for Women.

Practice in parliamentary drill is a striking and important feature of some organizations of women and cannot be too highly commended. Not one woman in a thousand understands the shortest and businesslike way of putting motions, electing officers and transacting the general affairs of an assembly. "Rise, address the chair, wait for recognition, then state your objections or amendments," was the terse advice given by a capable woman, who was presiding over a meeting where each woman was whispering to her neighbor.

A manual of parliamentary customs is an excellent book for the library table, and a very short study of its contents is sufficient to familiarize any bright woman with the most that she needs to know concerning the management of a public meeting. Every woman is likely to be at some time in a position where such knowledge will be of value.—New York Ledger.

Mothers and Sisters in Politics.

The sex which is first in the Sunday school and last in the jail, which is most strongly represented at church, and at prayer meetings, and at missionary meetings, and most feebly represented in the liquor saloons and tobacco shops of the land, which does the least of the world's preaching and the most of its practicing, which makes a poor figure in a battle between Christian nations and a splendid figure in a battle between right and wrong—such a sex forms a very large part of the power that makes for righteousness. To turn this purifying stream away from politics is equivalent to asserting that politics has no need of righteousness.—Wives and Daughters.

A Lovely Fan.

At a recent function a lovely fan, with sticks of malachite or a curious imitation of it and folds of dull green satin the exact hue and shade of ribbon, like leaves of the lily of the valley, had the delicate waxen bells of the flower painted on it with wonderful skill, and fittingly finished a green and white ball costume.—New York Letter.

Flour to Avoid.

Flour that is of a chalky or bluish white shade, or that feels soft and silky, and when balled together in the hand remains in a lump, should be avoided.—Chautauquan.

FIGHTING DEATH.

Thrilling Experience of People on the Brink of Eternity.

HOW THE GRIM MONSTER WAS PUT TO FLIGHT.

THERE ARE MORE THAN THREE HUNDRED people living on this coast who have publicly proclaimed that they owe their lives to modern medical and surgical skill. Their experience should be a guide to others.

Death is not a pleasant visitor, and his coming can in many instances be deferred by the exercise of a little ordinary judgment. Write to this man for his experience.

RED BLUFF, Sept. 25, 1901.

METROPOLITAN Dispensary—Gentlemen: Six weeks ago, when I first wrote you, I did not think it probable that such a wonderful change could be wrought in such a case as mine. I was a victim of Nervous Debility and Insomnia, caused by my own indiscretion. I was unable to sleep sometimes for three and four days at a stretch, and in only for an hour or so, I had been doctoring for months, and the best physicians on the coast pronounced me incurable. I was losing weight slowly but surely, unable to buy and around. Your first treatment was a revelation to me, and in a short time was fast asleep, and after 24 hours I felt certain that you would cure me. I have gained more than 20 lbs. in six weeks. I can only say "God bless you."

W. W. WILSON

Miss Nellie Wilson of Watsonville, Cal. wrote us as follows:

DEAR SIR:—Enclosed please find P. O. order for the balance due you. It is unnecessary to send another treatment, as I am entirely cured.

MISS NELLIE WILSON.

MISS NELLIE WILSON.

Mother says that I'm well, and I quite agree with her. My hearing is completely restored, the roaring noises in my right ear also gone. I have gained 15 pounds of weight in the two months of your treatment. My sense of smell has also returned, although it was about gone, as you will remember.

MISS NELLIE WILSON.

The Widow Watson's Woe.

Leap year has been inaugurated in the town of Egerton, Kan., by a well to do widow who took a liking to a young farm hand employed in the neighborhood. Mrs. Mary Watson owns a fine farm, and she has been recognized as a strong-minded woman. Her husband died about five years ago and left her about $20,000.

About a week ago she came to town to market and met John Northrup, who works on a farm about two miles beyond the farm of Mrs. Watson. Mrs. Watson had never seen the young man before, but appeared to be much taken with his appearance, and asked to be made acquainted with him.

The young man was not astonished at the request, but was much surprised when she told him, after knowing him about half an hour, that she wanted a husband and if he was willing she thought they would do well together as man and wife. He was a little taken aback at the suddenness of the offer, but he concluded he could do no better and accepted without any shyness. They got the necessary license and were made man and wife.—Cor. Philadelphia Press.

Two Strange Fish.

Two strange fish were taken in a trawl off the coast of Maine recently. One, the lampfish, is the only specimen of the kind ever taken in eastern waters.

In shape it was like a very large sunfish, and its weight was about 800 pounds. Its back was of a beautiful sky blue, the sides were snowy white, and the fins scarlet.

The other fish, the eel of the Canary Islands, is common in warm latitudes, but has never before been taken so far north as in this case.

Both were taken at a depth of 1,000 feet.—Belfast Age.
